Gay Lesbian Bisexual Transgender Resource Center
The GLBT Resource Center is a resource and referral center for gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender Aggies and their straight supporters. The Center educates campus and community constituencies on GLBT issues through programming about sexual orientation and gender identity/expression, advocacy, leadership, and visibility. The GLBT Resource Center also collaborates with student organizations, campus departments, and local community organizations to provide students with access to resources, activities, and support services.

Women's Resource Center
The mission of the Women’s Resource Center at Texas A&M University is to pursue equity and enhance the campus climate for women through visibility, advocacy, support, and programming. The Center advocates by educating campus and community constituencies on women’s issues and functions as a resource and referral center. The Center strives to ensure a community in which women and men can live and work together in a mutually respectful, safe, and supportive environment where equality, responsibility, and personal empowerment are encouraged and fostered. The Center further serves as a symbol for the university’s commitment to inclusion and equal access for women faculty, staff, and students, and thus celebrates the achievements of women while calling to attention and challenging the barriers that inhibit the full inclusion of women in the A&M community and beyond.

Department of Multicultural Services
The Department of Multicultural Services (DMS) provides multiple support services for current and prospective students from underrepresented populations and offers diversity education programs that foster inclusive learning environments for all students. We promote student success through academic support, diversity education, the enhancement of life and leadership skills, advocacy and mentoring. Department resources include academic courses, free tutoring, and a diversity library. Through Multicultural Services all students may also access training sessions on cross-cultural awareness, forums to discuss current issues, and a variety of leadership development opportunities. Finding A Mentor on Campus
ATMentors is a program composed of over 200 faculty, staff and administrators who have volunteered their time to helping students. ATMentors listen to students’ questions and concerns, advise students in their areas of experience and competence, and inform students about services and programs offered by TAMU. There are ATMentors in almost every department and building on campus. Mentors can be identified by the plaques on their doors- if you need a mentor just look for the ATMentors sign, visit the website, or send an email to atmentors@tamu.edu.
